

A NEW PLAYER IN COMMERCIAL REAL ESTATE

Kanvest announces the launch of its consultancy business specializing in commercial real estate investment

Paris, France, September, 2017 – Commercial real estate in France is currently experiencing strong growth. The consequences of Brexit, with the redeployment of capital to France, is restoring Paris' attractiveness as an alternative to London. International investors are actively returning and confirming their interest in the French market. Moreover, the substantial investment planned for the Grand Paris project will generate new investment opportunities. And lastly, with historically low interest rates, real estate remains attractive compared to other investment products.

In this specific context, Kanvest can meet this need by intervening with institutional and private investors. Kanvest offers a complete range services from acquisitions advice, sales advice, search for financing, search for partner investors and market analysis.

« Based on to our in-depth knowledge of the real estate markets and our local and international network of investors, we now have both a strategic and an economic opportunity in commercial real estate », announced Kevin Kanaan, president of Kanvest.

Mr. Kanaan has nearly 10 years' experience in the European financial and real estate markets. This experience has enabled him to develop solid relationships with many European banks as well as investors from Asia and the Middle East.

« After having worked in the financial and real estate sector in Europe, I intend to surround myself with the best people in order to launch Kanvest in France and rapidly become a significant player, first on the domestic market and then on the German market. We will be operational from October onwards », Kevin Kanaan added.
